

No Danger of A Fuel Famine

By Cabinet Members, Who Refer to Substitutes, for Anthracite—Special of Miners' Certificate Law in Pennsylvania Not Expected.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Oct. 22.—With the anthracite coal strike in its seventh week and cold weather at hand, there appeared today to be no lessening of the federal government's determination to keep "hands off" the strike for the present, at least, and let the operators and miners play out their endurance test.

A member of the cabinet who has had a hand in settling every other strike that has needed governmental intervention, said to International News Service:

"From no quarter have we been advised of a shortage of coal. If anthracite is not available, its substitutes are, and there is no danger of a fuel famine."

Some anthracite is being produced, although how much is problematical.

No authoritative data as to the amount of anthracite stored by dealers and in consumers' bins are available, Charles F. White, chief of the coal division of the department of commerce, said. The last survey made by the government showed that retail dealers in anthracite had a 52 days' supply on Jan. 1. The bureau of mines estimates that 61,693,000 tons of anthracite have been mined up to October 10, which is 12.5 per cent less during the same period of 1924.

Production of soft coal continues to run high, averaging above 11,500,000 tons each week of this month. Total production of bituminous for the calendar year to October 1, is placed at 383,050,000 tons or 6.3 per cent greater than during the same period of last year.

Repeal of the miners' certificate law in Pennsylvania requiring anthracite miners to serve a two-year apprenticeship in the mines before being allowed to mine anthracite coal, advocated by John Hays Hammond, who was chairman of the president's fact finding coal commission, has little chance of going through, officials here declared.

"This law is discriminatory and indefensible," Hammond said. "There are many competent miners in the bituminous fields who owing to irregularity of operations, would gladly seek employment in the anthracite fields. The effect of this law, together with the complete unionization of the mines, give the United Mine Workers virtually a monopoly of miners' labor."

Labor department officials expressed the belief that no Pennsylvania Legislature would ever repeal this law.

"The nation simply refuses to become excited over the anthracite strike," said one official. "Householders are beginning to depend less and less upon anthracite for their fuel requirements. Now and then complaint is made that persons are unable to secure their accustomed supply of a particular size of anthracite, but that is about the only 'kick' we are getting out of the strike."

NUMEROUS IMPROVEMENTS BEING MADE UPTOWN

Among improvements going on in the First ward is the painting of the large store and residence building of D. Loughran Company on Fair street, the starting of the job of painting the parsonage of the First Reformed Church, Main street; the converting of the brick store building at 40 North Front street into two up-to-date stores; the remodeling and installing of a heating system in Fireman's Hall, Fair street, and the stuccoing of the exterior of the county clerk and surrogate's office and other needed changes to the building, corner Main and Fair streets.

Pheasant Season Opened.

The hunting season on pheasants opened in Ulster county today. This morning police headquarters received word that a man was shooting at the birds on the Boulevard. As it is against the law to discharge firearms in the city limits police were sent to the scene, but the hunter had evidently been warned and made good his escape.

Concrete for Mountains.

Lester Vining, contractor at Hensonsville, has purchased of the Canfield Supply Company a Jaeger concrete mixer for construction work in the mountains.

On With the Story.

"You don't seem to have any more room spots here," said an inquiring tourist to the native guide. "In the last village we stopped at they showed us a place where a man had laid in wait for his rival in love and attacked him with Scottish gusto."

The guide had really never heard of this remarkable crime, but his professional jealousy was aroused.

"That is quite true, sir," he unobtrusively bore witness, "but you, perhaps, are not aware that the villain afterward made his escape in this direction, and you are now standing on the very spot where he threw away the Scottish spade with which he made the fearful attack."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Mole Not Soberly a Pest

The warbler is velvet who raises havoc in the garden plot is not an unqualified nuisance. The mole has a voracious appetite and some gardeners think he consumes enough worms and grubs to make up for the damage he does. Although it has no perceptible soil appendages, it bears sounds which humans could never pick up. A peculiarity of the mole is that he burrows in the "out" or "in" direction. It does not become disoriented as surface insects do. Consequently a mole is spotted out even under the most trying circumstances.

GOLDEN PETER FOX FARM BOUGHT BY NEW YORKER

The New York Times today states that Willis H. Postman of Frank H. Veiller & J. L. Robertson sold for Dr. Percival M. Barker to Arthur Hudson Marks his 340-acre estate, known as Pepper Box Farm, in the town of Hardenburgh, in the heart of the Catskills. This estate was formerly the property of Jay Gould, who built there a fishing and hunting lodge. A mile of the famous Beaverkill runs through it. The new owner plans to continue the practice of his predecessors of stocking the stream at frequent intervals, thus keeping up its reputation as one of the finest trout streams in the East. Immediately upon his acquisition of the property Dr. Barker built himself a Norman manor house of concrete, and also went in for game. Thomas farming on a considerable scale. At the time of the sale there were on it a large flock of sheep and quite a herd of blooded cattle, as well as a large assortment of pigs, turkeys and chickens. It was held at $300,000.

GLoucester FISHERMEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

By Telegram to The Freeman. Weymouth, Mass., Oct. 22.—Captain John Murray and twelve seamen of Gloucester rowed into port today in two boats with a remarkable story of a narrow escape from death ten miles off Cape Cod during the night when their fishing schooner—Niranda—was rammed by an unknown collier, which proceeded without offering aid to the stricken fishermen. The boat, formerly a gasoline yacht of the same name, built in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1892 was sinking fast when the Gloucester fishermen

THE HUGABLE BEAR

Nothing very much had happened lately and Polly was wondering what she would do when down the street came the sound of a man singing.

"Ah-duddy-ung-duddy-ung-duddy-day," was the way the song sounded to Polly.

She rushed out into the street, and turning down the next block she saw a man with a performing bear, and a crowd of people following.

Polly hurried after until she caught up with them. Many of her friends were there. In fact, almost all the children were following along, and a few grown-up people, too.

The bear stood on his hind legs while the man again sang the song. "Ah-duddy-ung-duddy-ung-duddy-day," and the bear danced slowly around with his paws up before him, just as though they were two hands, Polly thought.

Everyone gave the man pennies. Then the bear climbed a tree.

But the man seemed to want more than pennies.

"If anyone will give me fifty cents, I'll let him ride my bear."

No one seemed to want to accept the offer.

"He is muzzled, he will do no harm," the man said.

Polly longed to ride the bear. He was very big and brown and handsome. Polly thought it would be beautiful to ride on his back just as she had ridden on the back of the big Newfoundland dog when she was a little girl.

"If only I had fifty cents," she said aloud, "but I've only four cents."

"Four cents!" the man exclaimed. "Four cents to ride my bear! Such a chance—the chance of a lifetime and the kid says 'four cents.'"

One of the grown-ups came up to Polly.

"I'll give you fifty cents to pay the man if you'll ride the bear."

Another grown-up had said: "Don't let the child do such a thing. The bear might hug her and crush her to death."

But the first grown-up said: "Oh, he looks too old and too sleepy to do any harm."

And before they could do any more talking the man who owned the bear

Polly Loved It.

had come forward with a five bow and had said:

"The kind gentleman will pay the fifty cents so the kid can ride my bear."

"Oh yes, please let me," Polly shouted. All her friends were looking at her. They looked as though they thought she was very brave.

Polly was glad they thought she was brave. It was nice to be thought a heroine. But she knew she wasn't brave—because she wasn't in the least nervous.

She got on the bear's back and held onto his huge shaggy coat.

It was too slippery—too wobbly—to hold on this way, so Polly put her arm around the bear's neck.

With a sudden bound he had broken away from the man and was rushing down the street. No one had ever seen a bear go so quickly. But Polly loved it! She held on, talking to the bear all the time.

"Darling big bear, oh, you darling big bear," she said.

The bear turned into a back yard, through a garden and then walked right in the side gateway of Polly's own garden. The bear was going very slowly now, and Polly thought she would get off and walk beside him. It was so hard to hold on.

She got off and walked beside the bear, through the garden, up the hill. She put her arm around the bear, and the bear seemed to like it. The people had been left behind some time before.

Suddenly Polly heard a frightened voice crying out to her:

"Polly, Polly, come here, run, my precious, run to mother!"

It was her mother hurrying after her. Someone had just come with the news that Polly had gone off riding the bear, while everyone had chased after them, though they had missed seeing where they went at first.

Polly went back to her mother and the bear went back to his master.

What a beautiful ride she had had. And the bear had been so hugable, though he hadn't hugged her.

"Promise me," her mother said later, "that you will never again ride any wild animals."

It was too bad mothers were nervous, Polly thought, but she promised her mother. Only she was very thankful to have had that one splendid ride.

Chicken With Corn.—Scrub and clean a fowl well by using a handful of soda in the water; cut up as for frying, roll in seasoned flour and brown in a little hot fat.

Lay the pieces in a baking dish and cover with milk, simmer longer, depending upon the age of the fowl. Season well when half cooked and add a cupful of corn (fresh) cut from the cob—canned will do. Serve the chicken with corn and the gravy poured around it.

Parisian Sandwich Filling.—Soak one cupful of prunes over night, drain, remove the stones and put through a meat chopper with one cupful each of dates and figs. Add enough orange juice to make a paste that will spread easily. Butter Graham or whole wheat bread and spread with the filling. This will keep some time if covered, and is very good for a cake filling.

Mutton Broth.—Take three mutton bones, one tablespoonful of rice and six cupfuls of water. Add salt and simmer for five hours. Skim and remove all fat, add pepper and serve hot. This is especially good for children.

Mutton on Casserole.—Brown a pound or less of mutton cut from the shoulder, cut into serving-sized pieces. When well browned season with salt, pepper and dredge with flour. Add one cupful or more of carrots, a cupful of peas, and one onion. Place in a casserole to bake for several hours. Serve from the casserole.

Fried Green Corn.—Cut as much corn from the cob as will be eaten. Into a hot frying pan put a generous portion of butter and when melted turn in the corn and stir constantly until the milk has moistened it well. Season, and set on the back part of the range to cook for five or ten minutes, then serve. A green pear finely chopped and added to the butter, cooking a minute or two before the corn is added, makes a fine flavor well-liked.

Confidence

Art has been aptly defined as "the expression of man's joy in his work."

Advertising may be defined as the expression of the advertiser's confidence in himself.

The merchant or the manufacturer who spends money for newspaper space has faith in his goods and in his service.

Read the advertisements with this thought in mind.

Count every newspaper advertiser as one who offers something for your convenience, your comfort or your service, with firm confidence that his offerings will find favor with you.

Y. W. Supper

An unusually jolly time was had at the regular Wednesday evening supper at the Y. W. C. A. While the girls were enjoying an excellent supper, three girls loaded down with suit cases, bags, tennis racquets, banjos, cameras, etc., arrived weary and hungry and it was soon learned from their broadcasting conversation that they were back safe and sound from Camp Maqua. Later they reported on the camp, but they were not dry reports, that's certain.

Directly after the supper, Miss Redman announced that for those girls in the city who have the time, there will be bowling for women at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock. Also there will be a swimming class on Thursday mornings from 10 to 11:30 o'clock.

Having laid aside their "impediments" and refreshed themselves at the supper table, the three travellers next gave their account of Camp Maqua, the business girls' convention. Miss Jess Goodsell was the first to report. She gave the "aim" of the business girls' conference as follows: "The aim of the conference is that business girls may get together, gain a new and deeper experience of God in every-day life and may prepare themselves for a more responsible part in the work of the Young Women's Christian Union." Miss Goodsell told of the excellent program arranged for the business girls and frankly and enthusiastically expressed herself to the effect that the Kingston Y. W. C. A. needed badly a business girls' club of their own. Furthermore she urged the establishing of the same in order that delegates for the next Camp Maqua conference might be chosen early enough so that money could be earned in time to be able to tell those delegates that their expenses, in part or entirely, would be paid.

Miss Gladys Hopper told of the play-time of the girls at Camp Maqua under Miss Capen's leadership. There were swimming, boating, hiking, including nature-study hikes, roomany day, when all study, etc., was done as the girls roamed about the beautiful woods and along the lake.

The girls learned many new things, each girl trying to learn at least one new thing while at camp, and Miss Hopper said that it was surprising what some of the girls learned in so short a time. Finally there was a big "Country Fair," with a baseball game between the Hickville Nine and the Killum Sanitariums, Miss Capen leading the band that accompanied the base ballers. There were contests of various sorts, ending with a comedy given in the evening by the directors and counselors that was screamingly funny. Miss Hopper closed her report by telling of the final ceremonial campfire that was the general camp farewell and warmly thanked the local Y. W. for sending her to Camp Maqua.

The last report was by Miss Lillian "Bilby" Herdman, who, though not "sent," went with the girls. Her description of the life in the wilds, in cottages with modern conveniences, of Picnic Lodge and of beautiful Lake Maqua at sunset and by moonlight was enthusiastic. But she counted as most worth while the association with other girls and companionship with such women as Miss Capen and others like her. But most of all Miss Herdman was enthusiastically for a Business Girls' Club in Kingston and she made it plain that already the success of the two financial drives by the Y. W. was due at least in part to the efforts of the girls and the organization through which they put over the drives. This she took as her reason for asking that the girls themselves form this club, and through that organization make it possible to work with a vision and along the most efficient program.

Interesting as was the matter contained in all of the reports, the feature that most stood out was the poise, ease of expression and efficient manner of making their appeal that all of the girls had gained in no small measure by their summer's experience. All were to be congratulated upon the excellence of their reports.

The supper committee received a report of the nominating committee and unanimously elected officers for the coming year as follows: President, Catherine Salzman; vice-president, Dorothy Kennedy; secretary, Ethel Kline; treasurer, Gladys Hopper.

NEW PALTZ

New Palitz, Oct. 22.—The Dutch Guild will hold their annual sale and supper November 20.

A large new Community Hall is to be erected in Modena, which is a gift from J. E. Hasbrouck, Sr. The hall will be known as the Hasbrouck Memorial Community Hall.

Miss Mary Devo entertained at "500" at her home in Forest Glen Monday.

Orchard Terrace has entertained thirty-one guests over last week end.

Dr. Ernest Clapp attended the inauguration of Dr. Thomas as president of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., on Wednesday of last week.

Harry Hasbrouck is making the progress on the residence of William T. Edwards on South Chestnut street.

Mrs. John McGrath has returned from the Kingston Hospital.

The Sunday school class of Mrs. Norman Constant met with her Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Freer were among a number of other guests entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Auchmoody at a far-away dinner given in honor of Earl Kiser, who leaves soon for Florida.

Mrs. Walter Bowne and Miss Lois Sutton, sisters of Mrs. Edmund Ellings, of the "Locusts," New Palitz, expect to spend the winter with Mrs.

Olive Ellings at Orchard Terrace Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ellings and Mrs. Frances Ellings will join them later.

The Sullivan-Shafer Post held their meeting in their rooms October 19. Dr. Alice Finley recently presented the post with many interesting war mementoes consisting of helmets, bayonets and gas masks.

An interesting ancient flag of the United States has been given to the post by George Cahill. It has thirteen stripes and the original thirteen stars. This flag has been in Mr. Cahill's family for many years. The historical value of this emblem can hardly be measured and the post will gladly cherish its possession.

Mrs. Van den Berg, the new president of the Study Club, celebrated the year's beginning and her own accession to office by holding the first meeting in her home the past week. The next meeting will be a luncheon on October 27 at the Van der Sluis House.

Mrs. Lewis Ten Hazen of Wurts avenue and son, George, Benjamin, and family of Briar Cliff called on friends in Rosendale on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Tanner are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a baby daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Conklin entertained guests on Sunday.

The Seaboard Class of the Methodist Sunday school are planning their annual Halloween party to be held on Friday evening, October 24. Everyone welcome.

Mrs. Frank Guine and daughter, Blanche, were to Poughkeepsie and Hyde Park Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Guine and son, Edward, spent Sunday there and accompanied them home.

On Tuesday night, October 20, one hundred and forty members of the Dutch Arms were present at the church parlors to welcome Dr. B. B. Bush, a former pastor of the church.

ONE-PROFIT

Facilities Alone Make Possible

this Sedan of fine quality—at the lowest price ever placed on a Sedan by Studebaker

THERE was a time when the automobile buyer seeking greatest value for his dollar was justified in considering a car of second-grade quality, which was reasonably satisfactory from the standpoint of transportation alone.

But, with the advent of Studebaker's One-Profits manufacturing policy, cars of the finest quality, such as the Standard Six Sedan illustrated below, are now only slightly higher in price than those of second grade.

This small difference in price is practically nothing in comparison to the vast difference in materials and workmanship—plus increased pride of ownership and the extra service that a Studebaker gives.

Under this One-Profits system we build in our own plants all bodies, engines, clutches, steering gears, differentials, springs, gear sets, axles, gray iron castings and drop forgings. Thus we eliminate extra profits and overhead that all other manufacturers (except Ford) must pay to outside parts and body makers—and what we save goes to the buyers of Studebaker cars.

And because we have facilities for manufacturing all vital parts on this One-Profits basis, we are able to design, engineer and build every Studebaker car as a complete harmonious unit. Being Unit-Built, the Studebaker functions as a unit—with all the advantages of unit over assembled construction.

The result is years longer life—scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation—greater riding comfort—minimum repair costs—and, finally, higher resale value.

A UNIT-BUILT CAR

Value Stabilized by
"No-Yearly-Model"

THE fine Studebaker Standard Six Sedan illustrated below is upholstered in genuine wool cloth. Carpets are wool. Windows are real plate glass. Four wide doors. Equipment includes an 8-day clock, gasoline gauge, coincidental lock to ignition and steering gear, automatic windshield cleaner, ash receiver, rear-view mirror, stop light, dome light, safety lighting control on steering wheel, and full-size balloon tires.

This Sedan has many superiorities—hidden as well as obvious. Body pillars are of fine northern white ash, cross-members of hard maple. We pay a premium for the best steels.

Slam the door and the sound says "quality." Swing on the door. Run one wheel up on the curb and note how the doors still open and close—how the motor still runs smoothly. Sit on the firm, heavy fenders. Try the steering gear. See how easily it handles the full-size balloon tires. Test the comfort of the deep, wide seats.

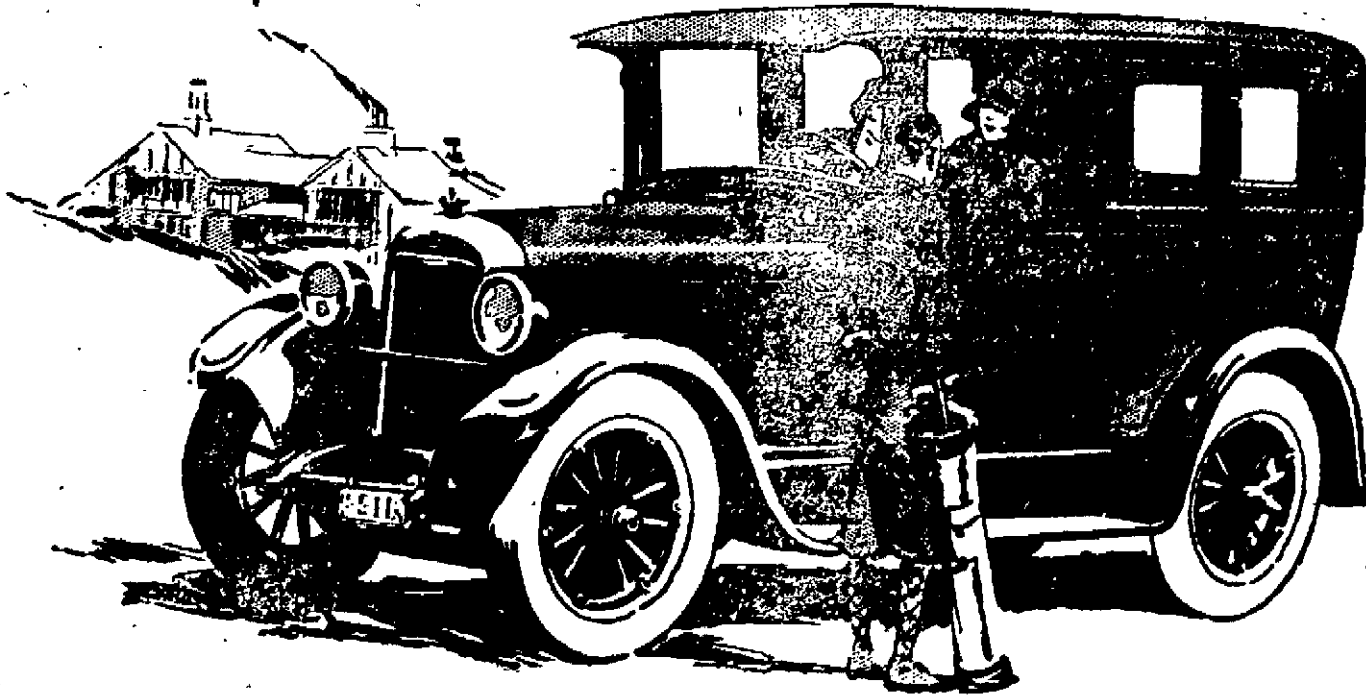

Run the engine—the most powerful in any car of its size and weight, according to the ratings of the N. A. C. C. and the Society of Automotive Engineers. This is Studebaker's lowest priced Sedan. Make comparisons—then realize why no car at a comparable price has more than superficial resemblance.

Come in and let us demonstrate this sturdy One-Profits car.

Lyons Would Try To Help Olive

Has Proved He Can Accomplish Things in Business and Would Bring Same Energy to Office of Supervisor in Working for Town.

The town of Olive faces a splendid opportunity to secure results in the way of town improvement by the election of Chester A. Lyons of Ashokan as supervisor. In nominating Mr. Lyons for this important office, the Republican party in that town selected a man who has demonstrated conspicuous ability in accomplishing whatever he has set out to do.

Mr. Lyons is a lifelong resident of the town of Olive and was a resident of the third district until a few years ago. For a number of years he served as postmaster at Rosendale and his service in that position was so faithful and efficient as to bring commendation from everyone who had business with the office.

In whatever he has undertaken Mr. Lyons has achieved success. He is a thoroughgoing business man and his entire career has been marked by a constant desire to accommodate his neighbors and make a success of their undertakings, as well as his own. The office of supervisor is essentially a business job, and the Republican party of the town which selected Mr. Lyons, a business man, for a business job, has displayed in business would certainly be employed on behalf of the town by him.

Mr. Lyons firmly believes that it is possible to accomplish results as chief executive officer of the town the same as it has been possible for him.

to accomplish results in business. He believes Olive is entitled to recognition because of its importance and if elected will use every honorable effort to get it.

For thirty years under Democratic control the town of Olive has had ample opportunity to accomplish the things which the party now says it wants to do for and in Olive. Mr. Lyons believes thirty years is too long a time for a political organization to live on promises without showing results. Voters who think seriously of the proposition will agree with him and in view of what he has done in the past will vote on November 3 to give him a chance to work for their interests as supervisor.

Exchange of Statues

The equestrian statue of George III which stood at Bowling Green, N. Y., was dragged from its pedestal July 9, 1776, and laid prostrate in the dust. The statue being composed of lead was afterwards melted and run into bullets and in 1902 the first statue of Washington was placed on the pedestal it formerly occupied.

Hollows in Cheeks and Neck Growing Deeper Every Week

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick.

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women, too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong. All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets which any druggist will tell you about, is putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, put on 15 pounds in five weeks and now feels fine. We all know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing flesh producing vitamins, but many people can't take it because of its horrible smell and fishy taste and because it often upsets the stomach.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are as easy to take as candy and if any thin person doesn't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to give you your money back—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets. Ask any druggist.

But be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine, and bear in mind that for thin, sickly kids they are wonderful—a very sickly child—age 9—gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Modern polo was played almost in its present form by the princes of Byzantium, and the Emperor Constantine was injured by falling from his horse in the game. The game became popular in England in 1872.

New Autumn Modes Are Conservative

Models Not So Flashy, More Artistic, Appear With Fall Season.

Describing the Paris openings a fashion correspondent in the New York Times says:

In all of the exhibitions there is a tendency toward more art, more refinement, less of the flash and "noise." These affairs are done in Paris as nowhere else. They are, more or less, formal private entertainments, and to receive an invitation is something of a distinction. In the handsome rooms of the establishments, many once the residences of the elite of Paris, the wide corridors and winding stairs, richly carpeted and paneled, impress one with the prestige of Paris as the fashion center of the world and its styles creators as masters of their art. One has only to glance about to feel that thrill that artists must find in the grace, style and elegance of the environment. The liveried attendants, the courteous and courteous attitude in everyone who appears in connection with a maison—all are in keeping with the occasion.

Dealing With Waistlines.

In the more important houses the opening is either a tea or an evening party. This year Jean Patou was the first host, and his exhibition was a really brilliant affair with everyone in evening dress as for a first night at the play. There was an orchestra and supper, with vintage champagne. In his advance styles Patou has developed a definite type in which the line is of utmost importance, though it is handled with such skill as not to be obvious. The widely discussed waistline, which women of fashion insist must be once more normal, though refusing to return to stays, Patou deals with in dexterous and delicate manner. Few of his bodices are built on the middy blouse plan, but his sports clothes and tailors are cut like boys' clothes and in entirely new designs.

To avoid the commonplace, suits of this description are made like Norfolk jackets. In one, box plaits begin at a yoke, are confined by leather belt just above hip line, and then carried down the skirt, back and front. This scheme is used in other tailored suits and frock. In another arrangement the front plaits begin at the waist.

Afternoon and evening dresses are less simple and present the real waistline problem. But in these Patou also has accomplished real achievements. The normal waistline he announces as now "stabilized," is subtly evident in the lines of soft materials drawn closely around the figure in a charming manner. This model is done in crepe satén, crepe marocain, crepe de chine, panne and velvet. Patou is doing his most artistic work in velvet and in this fabric his interest is now centered. In order to obtain best results in his designs for handsome gowns and mantles, Patou has obtained from Lyons a straight pile silk velvet of extra width, unknown heretofore in the fashion ateliers. The last word in elegance is expressed in costumes made of this new velvet—a material especially gentle in drapery which gives to one's figure a delightfully supple appearance.

In the circular and flaring godets, accepted models for the coming season, velvets, brooches and crepes work out most happily. The uncompromising plainness of last year's styles is changed. All of the dressier gowns are richly trimmed. Needlework of silk, beads, chenille, and the latest novelty leather are used in handsome motifs, plaques and borders. On some gowns, in just two or three touches to give distinction to the ensemble, gold and silver lace and passementerie, appliques and fur are the trimmings generally used.

Patou is something of a planner in fur, bordering his coats with bands of it, making large collars, deep cuffs, shaped panels and whole waistcoat fronts from collar to hem of the novelty fur.

Skirts With Circular Pleasures.

The couturiers whose pageants followed Patou's have each a wealth of ideas about dressing the fashionable world this season. Lucien Lelong, whose incidental evening party was a joyous occasion: Redfern, Martini of Armand, Philippe et Gaston, Paquin, Vionnet, Lucille, Louise Boulanger, Worth and Poiret have all created many beautiful designs.

Redfern elected to give his friends and patrons tea, and gave them at the same time a rare treat in the lovely things of his production.

With a fine sense of proportion, Redfern designs for women of stature and for maturer years, costumes of distinguished lines in splendid materials, some trimmed elaborately. For afternoon he is using panne, crepe satin, silk, velvet, crepe de chine and chiffon. Most skirts have the circular flounce or a cluster of fullness toward the back. More formal gowns are draped, or the fabric is handled in some fashion making for grace and softness. When, in an occasional frock, plaiting or fullness is placed in front, a sash and bow make connection with the back panel. In some of the more elaborate gowns a very large, loose bow is added.

This is a smart feature in one especially charming gown of black panne, faced with rose-colored chiffon. In this particular model the bow touches one shoulder and falls, but half tied, across the back of a deep V bodice, and ends in a long, sweeping slash train of the velvet, lined with the rose.

Much gold lace, gold and silver themes and passementerie are employed by Redfern, as by other leading houses, but not in the garish style of late seasons. Lace is veiled with chiffon, or one of the new silk laces dyed in delicate colors. Velvet gowns are much headed in jet, crystal, sequins, or in some graceful design done with the two. Needlework also is combined in the trimming detail.

Embroidery is seen on more elaborate costumes for both afternoon and evening. Metal, silk, chenille, bits of fur, oriental ornaments are used in these, but with restraint, on some frocks and coats just a touch, a line down the front or back, collar and cuffs, or pocket flaps. Fur is used on almost everything, but not in the wholesale manner of last year. Some of the smartest coats have but a collar and deep cuffs of fur. A few make extravagant display and many are lined with fur. These, of course, have also the collar and cuffs to match.

Knitted Sports Hat Popular. One of the most charming novelties seen in the shops of the Rue de la Paix and the Avenue de l'Opera is the knitted sports hat. Some of these were brought out earlier in the season, rather crude affairs of cotton or wool yarn. This latest Parisian chaparran is a bit of hand work, worthy of attention on its merits. It is knitted or crocheted in fine zephyr into which a border of flowers or conventional pattern is woven. The colors are lovely, and the hat has made a sensation, particularly among the younger set.

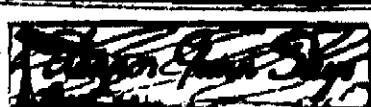

Another new and particularly picturesque hat for occasional wear is a soft toque of silk or velours draped to look like a grey's head-dress. Some of the specialty shops are showing square kerchiefs printed in the Roman and peasant patterns. These are something of a fad for the moment to wear with sports suits.

The English bandana, a scarf of colored silk tied about the head, is considered very chic, and is worn by the mannequin who displays the new sports suits.

Bijouterie and fanfare are two words one sees in many cutting little shops all over Paris. The craze for trinkets has not in the least abated. It has only increased since the ordinary glass bead necklace and imitation of countless varieties have become obvious, plentiful and rather dreary. It is the story of every day when it has run its course of popularity.

Easy to Give Up

It is, as a rule, far easier to surrender self to give up, that is, our mental existence to the first one who chooses to take it—this is found in spiritual slavery, to accomplish, right to the end, the task for which we were created.—Master Luck.

SCALLOPING THE FUR BORDER IS A NEW AND DECORATIVE DEVELOPMENT.

How to have a fur border and not have it merely a straight band is one of the enthralling problems of the moment, for while straight bands of fur are by no means taboo, they have been done so often that one welcomes a change. Scalloping the border on one or both edges is one of the methods employed—most effectively with short furs. Velvet is used also in this way,—the scallop usually occurring at the upper edge.

Vertical arrangements of fur are flattering and there is the fur godet with its slender upward line, also the fur revers.

Lanvin, who dares many things, has dared to combine two pelts with gray kasha on the model sketched,—the furs being seal, which is used for the scalloped vertical line, and gray monkey, in itself a novelty. Mention of black fur on gray, and vice versa, has been made several times this season. It is an effective combination which frequently calls for curly gray trimmer and sometimes for gray monkey, as we see, or wolf, fox or squirrel.

An unusual placement of fur takes the form of a yoke,—either one which fits like a snug cape over the shoulder or cut in an attenuated V at the back. While fur coats show no sign of having decreased in favor, with so many extraordinarily smart fur lined and fur trimmed coats to be had, the woman who, for one reason or another, has no fur coat need feel no apology in facing the world. Many of the smartest coats are reversible, but it is more intriguing to wear the fur side inside, after the manner of Minnehaha's mittens.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.

Large Sleeves.

Fads and fashions have often exaggerated sleeves to such an extent as to make comfort impossible and eliminate beauty entirely. When, during the years of the "fin de siècle," balloon sleeves grew to an immense size, caricaturists thought it advisable to recommend spouters with 2-foot long handles to feed the ladies imbedded between billowing silks, ruffles and laces.

At that time instigating laws against fashion's extravagances went out of style, but a milder and much more beautiful variation of puffed sleeve, during the XVII century, brought a great amount of censure for everyone wearing it. The large puffs of silk or linen were shown through slashes of an upper sleeve which was thought to be a sheer waste of good cloth. To top the luxury, these large and ornamental sleeves were made detachable from the bodice and changed, like collars are today.

Very long sleeves were the joy of Anglo-Saxon ladies. These sleeves were tied into a large knot and almost touched the ground. Later they were made into a shape of an immense bag in which various articles were carried. According to a medieval romance, a lady, escaping from her cruel guardians, saved herself from starvation when she found a loaf of bread in her fashionable bag sleeve.

JELKE GOOD LUCK MARGARINE The Finest Spread for Bread

Mother of four uses GOOD LUCK to help raise family

Says that they are sturdy, healthy children well-nourished and hearty

"Will my children be properly nourished? Will they get enough food value if I give them GOOD LUCK?" These are natural questions for any woman to ask herself. They are satisfactorily answered by actual experiences of other mothers.

Mrs. Molly A. Northrup, 19 Canonick Ave., Newport, R. I., says, "I doubt if there is a more enthusiastic user of GOOD LUCK Margarine than I am. I have used it for nearly fifteen years and can truthfully say that my four healthy children have always had it."

This experience is duplicated in many many instances. Let us send you our booklet, "As Wholesome as Can Be" with pictures and mothers' letters showing GOOD LUCK to be wholesome and nutritious.

Actual experiences like the foregoing prove that GOOD LUCK is nutritious, has plenty of food value, and supplies Energy.

It is a blend of three choice fats—each wholesome—each nutritious, so that GOOD LUCK has liberal food value including vitamins, and an appetizing, delicate flavor. It is a food fat in finest form.

Good Government Hardenbergh Can Depend on Avery

Luther Dushinberre Enjoys Confidence and Respect of Every Resident of Town—His Experience in Public Affairs a Valuable Asset.

In renominating Luther Dushinberre for supervisor of the town of Gardiner, the Republican party in that town selected a man whose qualifications are in every way apparent to the voters, in full confidence that they wish to have their affairs administered in a way that will reflect credit on them and on the county of Ulster as well as upon the town's chief executive officer.

Mr. Dushinberre has earned the confidence of his fellow citizens by his close application to his business and to the public affairs entrusted to him. The business of his neighbors has been conducted with conscientious thoroughness and marked ability. They know that he will not misrepresent them and that his dealings will be honest. He has proved that repeatedly not only in private but in the conduct of public business also.

Good government means a saving of money to the taxpayers. Government that is carelessly or loosely conducted always proves an expensive luxury. The degree in which government may be good or bad depends on the individual charged with administering it. During the past four years Gardiner has had every reason to feel satisfied that it was maintaining its place in the ranks of towns that were being run for the benefit of the people. No man or woman in the town of Gardiner can complain of Supervisor Dushinberre's work on behalf of the town, but all can praise it.

The county legislature performs work that is of the utmost importance to the taxpayer. The supervisor of every town bears an important relation to every taxpayer and every resident of the town. Men of the highest character should be selected for that office. Gardiner has maintained a high standard in the past, and the continuance of Supervisor Dushinberre during the next two years will demonstrate that the people again insist, as they have insisted in the past, that Gardiner will be satisfied only with the best.

People Never Have to Guess Whether He Will Perform His Full Duty—Experience Has Shown He Will.

As a faithful public official, neighbor and friend, William E. Avery has proved his worth to every voter of the town of Hardenbergh and his renomination by the Republican party in that town is an indication of his record in town and county affairs.

Hardenbergh has shown care and foresight in keeping its affairs under the supervision of Mr. Avery who has brought to the office a high ideal of service and citizenship, good judgment and business ability, by which the town and county have been unquestioned gainers. Town business has been administered in an economical way, as reference to the tax budget will disclose. Every dollar saved to the town has meant a direct corresponding benefit to the taxpayer. Nobody can avoid taxation but it is to the interest of every taxpayer to have public affairs conducted in such a way that taxation is held down to the lowest possible sum, and that is what Supervisor Avery has done.

As a man of practical business experience, Mr. Avery has applied business principles to the administration of the public business of the town and county. In all important matters he has consulted his constituents and has been guided by their wishes. Through his efforts county aid for bridges has been made substantial so that the safety of the traveling public would be assured. Few men have devoted themselves so unselfishly and conscientiously to procuring every possible benefit for the people of the town, and the success which has attended his efforts is a matter for congratulation on the part of every resident of Hardenbergh, regardless of political affiliation.

Since officials are judged by their records, Supervisor Avery's activities on behalf of the taxpayers of Hardenbergh may well be considered an indication of his conscientious work and success in the future. No matter what he has undertaken, he has accomplished results and that is what the people expect of their public officials.

Handshake Guide to Love

The handshake is a correct and infallible guide to true love. This is the contention of Dr. David V. Bush, a teacher of applied psychology. "Shake hands," he says, "before you start a courtship—not because you are to start something resembling a pugilistic bout, but because if the hands don't fit perfectly, don't start it." Doctor Bush says "the altar isn't even a milestone in the course of love; it's apt to be a millstone. A marriage certificate is no guarantee of love. Marriage, looked at as the seal of love, is apt to be a grave if the same ends when the knot is tied." The exponent of applied psychology thinks trouble can be avoided by proper character analysis before the courtship advances too far.

Two Singed by Lightning

St. Paul, Minn.—All the thrills of golf are not in driving a long ball or sinking a long putt. F. G. Newman of Chicago and his caddy, Donald Dwyer of 2003 Fortieth avenue south, Minneapolis, had a greater one than either of these at the Town and Country Club the other day when a storm broke. Coming down the sixth fairway a lightning bolt struck so close that it singed their hair and scorched their bodies.

Where "Tabby" Comes From

It may interest your readers to know the derivation of "tabby." It was a name first given to watered silk which came from the town of At Tabbi in Arabia. Tabby cats were so called because of the resemblance of the markings on their coats to the "watering" on the silk.—Letter to the Spectator.

FEDERATED COUNCIL PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

The October meeting of the Federated Council of Parent-Teacher Associations was held on Wednesday afternoon at the high school.

The president, Mrs. E. P. Dederick, announced that there would be a president's luncheon on Saturday noon of November 7th at the high school. This is a get together meeting for all the P-T. A. presidents of Ulster county and the luncheon will be in charge of the Home Economics Department of the high school.

The council voted to present Miss Holmes with $5 to help in buying materials for use in the sewing class of the part time school.

Mrs. James Scott, president of No. 7 P-T. A., reported that they expected to start serving milk to undernourished children on the first Monday in November and would serve hot soup and cocoa alternately during the cold weather to pupils bringing their noon lunch.

Mrs. W. A. Lobbeyear, president of

No. 6 association, reported that milk would be served as usual in the morning and cocoa at the noon hour as was done last year.

Mrs. C. E. Ennist, president at No. 1, told of the Halloween party to be held there the proceeds of which were to be used to buy an electric plate as heretofore there have been no conveniences for heating any food for serving refreshments.

Beginning November first the Christian Endeavor meetings will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

"T" ROAD RACE

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Physical Director Daley of the local Y. M. C. A. is planning to hold another popular Thanksgiving Day road race.

This event, which was held for the first time last year, attracted nearly thirty runners of all ages from 12 to 35. The participants were divided into four groups arranged by weight classification. All groups but one were handicapped a certain time and prizes in the form of medals were awarded for first, second and third in the race as well as for first second and third in each group.

The four weight classifications will remain the same as last year, i. e., under 90 pounds, under 110 pounds, under 135 pounds and unlimited.

The course, a little over two miles, is through the city streets ending at Greenkill avenue and Broadway.

The race will begin promptly at 9 a. m. and will be open to all runners of the city. A Y. M. C. A. membership is not needed but all runners must sign up and weigh in before 6 p. m. on the Wednesday previous to Thanksgiving Day.

Snakes That Burrow

There is a class of snakes known as burrowing snakes which live underground. They have a cylindrical rigid body covered with generally smooth and polished scales; a short, strong tail; a short rounded or pointed head with narrow mouth. Some species of snakes bury themselves in the ground and hibernate throughout the winter.

September Price For League Milk

League Net Pool Price Shows High Fluid Sales—September Brings Organized Dairymen a Net Pool Price of $2.216.

The net pool base price for milk delivered during the month of September announced by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association is $2.216. This is the basic price for 100 pounds of three per cent milk at the base zone 104-210 miles from New York city.

With the exception of September 1921, when the prices received for fluid milk and also all the lower classes were somewhat higher, this is the highest September pool price since the League was formed. The present price is 11% cents above August and 37 cents higher than the September price a year ago.

This improvement in the League farmer's milk returns through his association is due, according to the official statement, principally to an increasing percentage of fluid milk sales, especially in the Association's own plants and a general improvement in the efficiency of its plant operations.

The sales statement for August issued at this time shows that the total sales of fluid milk through the League's own plants amounted to $1,927,582.83 or about 91 per cent of the total sales of all milk products including fluid milk from League plants during the month of August. The total amount of fluid milk sales through the League's own plants in August 1921, the first year of the pool, was only $174,791.87.

During the month of September the Association marketed as fluid milk and as by-products, a total of 170,230,408 pounds of milk of which 52,152,024 pounds were marketed through the League's own plants. According to the League statement there was a considerable surplus above fluid demands due largely to late favorable pasture conditions and good after feeding. This surplus was disposed of readily in various by-product forms depending on the market needs.

The condensed general balance sheet for the month of August shows total assets of $18,550,535.84. The total amounts of certificates of indebtedness issued up to April 1, 1925, including deductions since that date up to and including August for which certificates will be issued next April, is $12,381,173.62.

PHANTOM BANDIT ADMITS BANK RAID TO SAVE FACTORY

Manufacturer Says That He Staged $28,000 Hold-up to Avert Failure.

Dayton, Ohio.—Fred Nichol, Dayton manufacturer, arrested recently, is said to have admitted to detectives that he is the blue-masked, blue-robed phantom bandit who held up and robbed employees of the North Dayton branch of the Dayton Savings Bank and Trust company, escaping with $28,000, police announced.

Nichol is president of the local manufacturing concern bearing his name. He told detectives that he had turned robber because of financial difficulties. He said that he conceived the idea of robbing the bank, purchased the blue material of which his robe and mask were made and gray kid gloves which concealed his hands.

Uses Own Auto.

The clue which led to Nichol's arrest was the presence of his adopted daughter, Miss Helen Sammet, an employee of the bank, at the time of the hold-up. Methods used by the robber were so unusual that until the detectives started investigation of the Nichol clue they had no information on which to base their investigation.

Nichol used his own automobile, a coach, to make his getaway. After obtaining the loot, he said, he drove into the country, where he burned the blue robe, mask and gray gloves. Nichol is a lifelong resident of Dayton.

Nichol told the authorities he broke into the bank through a rear door at

The Frightened Employees Pleaded for Mercy.

4 o'clock on the morning of the robbery and then waited until bank employees arrived.

While the "phantom bandit" was being sought by police in automobiles and by an officer of McCook field in an airplane, Nichol said, he was driving aimlessly through the country about Dayton.

His purpose, he said, was to throw his pursuers off his trail. Then, according to his confession, he returned to Dayton, drove to his home, greeted his wife and concealed the plunder.

Mrs. Nichol had no intimation that her husband was under surveillance until detectives searched the Nichol home and found the money hidden in Nichol's room. He took only bills of high denomination, leaving more than $1,000 in one and two dollar bills and in silver.

Threatened to Lock Up Seven.

A feature of the robbery was the bandit's threats to lock up the seven employees in a huge vault. The frightened employees, five men and two girls, including Miss Sammet, pleaded for mercy. The robber then locked only a grating of the vault, walked into the directors' room near the vault, counted the money and left.

Nichol explained how he was prepared for any emergency. He admitted, his confession shows, that he was desperate and that he would have made use of the two guns had the occasion arisen.

Nichol's place of business is across the street from the bank.

Find Furs and Death in Northern Wilds

Victoria, B. C.—The roof leaked.

Thus ended a note found yesterday beside the bodies of Peter Ackerman and George Williams, trappers, who went more than a year ago into the wilds of northern British Columbia in quest of fur-bearing animals.

They found them and obtained the furs and caught them. Then in a little hut they were overcome by sickness and the note of farewell was written to tell an only son of Williams, residing in Edmonton, where the furs, valued at $2,000, might be found.

A Marvel

The wonder is that anyone ever thought of the phrase, "The quick and the dead," before the age of automobiles. —Detroit News.

Telegrapher Facing Death Stops Trains

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Facing death from a sudden illness, Kavanagh Jacobs, night telegraph operator for the Pittsburgh-Lake Erie railroad at Monongahela, near here, threw on the red signals to stop all trains a few minutes before he fell across his key, dead from an attack of acute indigestion. Trains on the division were halted for more than an hour until another operator could be sent to man the wire.

Jacob's body was found at his desk by police who went to the station in response to an appeal from divisional headquarters of the railroad to investigate the failure of the operator to answer his call.

Earlier in the night Jacobs had summoned a physician, but had declined to leave his post.

LONG SLAYER HUNT ENDS IN CEMETERY

Detective Waits Six Years, but Lands Suspect.

New York.—When Giuseppe Rizzo was shot dead in a gang fight at Maynard, Mass., six years ago, local police were told a man known as Giuseppe Cipollo had been among those who fired on him. Unable to get a picture of Cipollo to distribute among departments about the country, the police manufactured one. A week ago detectives received word that Cipollo was a son-in-law of Gattano Catterasso of Brooklyn. A detective proceeded to watch the house. Fate played into his hands in gruesome fashion, for Catterasso died, and all relatives by blood and marriage were summoned.

Mourners passed in and out of the house, all being observed by the detective. None looked like the man in the touched-up picture. Then came the funeral next morning and the detective mingled with the mourners, both in the house and in the church. Still he did not see his man.

The detective went with the mourners to Holy Cross cemetery. Every one thought the officer was one of the deceased man's friends. Finally, as the members of the family knelt for an instant above the open grave the detective saw a man about forty years old who, except for a swarthy complexion and traces of worry, was the counterpart of the picture.

As the mourners left, the detective arrested this man. "Yes, I am Giuseppe Cipollo," the man said later in the police station. "I was there when Rizzo was shot. I had a gun and I fired some shots myself, but it was not one of my bullets that killed him."

The police say another member of the band which shot Rizzo was arrested years ago and is serving a prison term in Massachusetts. Cipollo is being held for extradition to Massachusetts.

Asks to Be Stabbed to Prevent Burial Alive

London.—Sir George Greenwood, presiding recently at a meeting of the London Society for the Prevention of Premature Burial, said he had given directions to those who would be his executors to plunge a stilette into his heart after his death so as to make certain of it.

He added that a schoolmate of his, who became a great surgeon, insisted the stabbing process be carried out as a precaution.

Sir George declared he had no faith in the present so-called modern methods of certifying death.

Miss Emily Akes, honorary secretary of the society, said one of the best-known men in England had once been placed in a casket as dead, and when about to be buried was found to be quite well and alive. He had lived for some twenty years afterward.

Doomed Couple Unable to Say Farewell Before Death

Budapest, Hungary.—With five minutes to say good-by before their death, allowed by the court, Miti Lederer and her husband, Gustav, a former lieutenant, choking with anguish and blinded by tears, were unable to say a single word. They had been convicted of the murder and dismemberment of the owner of a sausage factory, Frank Kudela, who was visiting the couple in a suburb of Budapest. The two embraced in a final meeting while the presiding judge held a watch. "You have five minutes," he said. "Four—three—two—one, and now no more time to bid each other good-by." The man and wife were parted and immediately executed.

Robe for Lollipop

St. Louis, Mo.—Fred Brigrat gives St. Louis clear title to the youngest bandit on record.

Brigrat, eleven, imbued with an ambition to emulate the exploits of the Cukoo gang and Egga Rata, procured a pistol and proceeded to rob a confectionery store. A woman, Mrs. Rose Harris, was in charge.

"Stick 'em up," commanded the infant robber bold.

Mrs. Harris complied. Police found Freddy on a street corner sucking a lollipop he had purchased with part of his loot.

Effort Makes Success

Many people want to do things that are entirely worthy and approvable, but do not know how to accomplish them. They lack the power of making effort, which is the key to the whole matter. To try, and fail, is better than not to have tried at all.—Gitt.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

Six towns in Ulster County, represented by Democratic supervisors, denied appropriation of public funds for highway improvements during years of 1923 and 1924.

The public funds available for highway improvement consisted of moneys appropriated by the State and County and collected for motor vehicle license fees.

In the year 1923 a total of $157,000 was available to Ulster County for highway improvement.

The Board of Supervisors apportioned this money to various towns, excluding three towns, viz: Towns of Lloyd, Paltz and Shawangunk, all represented by Democratic supervisors and their share of this public fund was nothing.

In 1924 there was $189,000 available to Ulster County for highway improvement, and the same apportioned among various towns; but the following were excluded, viz: Towns of five, Rochester and Saugerties, all represented by Democratic Supervisors and these towns were allowed nothing for highway improvement.

These six towns are among the most important in Ulster County.

The Highway Law requires that apportionments by the Board of Supervisors must meet the approval of the State Commissioner of Highways. In 1924 the State Commissioner of Highways refused to approve the action of the Board of Supervisors in the following letter:

"STATE OF NEW YORK
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
BUREAU OF HIGHWAYS.
Albany, N. Y., May 13, 1924.

Henry R. DeWitt,
Clerk, Board of Supervisors,
Ulster County, New York.

Sir:
Under date of May 12th, I sent you the following telegram:
"Ulster County determination agreement not acted upon pending further advice as to reason for elimination of some towns." Stop letter follows.

In 1923, the Towns of Lloyd, New Paltz and Shawangunk in Ulster County received no apportionment of State funds under Chapter 320-B of the Highway Law. At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors held April 1, 1924, the Towns of Saugerties, Olive and Rochester received no apportionment of such moneys. All other towns in the County except the three mentioned, and also except the Town of Kingston, which is a small, poor town, with a small mileage of public highway, each year received a proportion of such moneys.

I understand that the three towns in 1923 and the three towns in 1924 from which such moneys were withheld have all elected Democratic supervisors and that the reason they were not included in the apportionment was that they were represented by Democratic Supervisors.

I dislike to bring up a matter in which the political complexion of the County is concerned. It has no proper place in the distribution of the use of public funds for public highway construction. But the discrimination against these towns and the reason therefor is so obvious that I cannot see my way clear to approve the determination and agreement as passed by your board. The Legislature in enacting Section 320-B of the Highway Law did not have in mind and had no intention of allowing this money to be used in a political manner by the Boards of Supervisors. It was apportioned to the counties with the understanding that it would be equitably divided among the towns. I can find nothing in the law which states that the people of any town shall be penalized simply because they have elected Democratic Supervisors. Such an action on the part of the Supervisors would be exactly parallel to an action by the Commissioner of Highways in withholding maintenance money from a county because the political complexion of the county did not agree with that of the Commissioner. I am returning herewith without approval copies of the determination and agreement submitted by you to Division Engineer Howe and which he forwarded to me for necessary action.

Yours very truly,
A. W. BRANDT,
Commissioner.

The mandamus granted by the Supreme Court directing the State Commissioner of Highways to approve of the above apportionment was reversed in the Appellate Courts and the State Commissioner of Highways never approved such apportionment.

All property owners pay taxes and all automobile owners license fees.

Public moneys are for the benefit of all the people, and should not be used to punish the minority political party.

Not only were the inhabitants of these towns injured by not being permitted to improve their highways but also the traveling public which used these roads.

The only remedy is to change the political control of the County which adopts such a policy. It is not right.

It is for the voters to decide whether such practices shall be continued.

Cuckoo and Its Eggs

Henry S. Davenport of Milton, Mass., England, tells the following story in the London Times: "A sister-in-law of mine at Stamford was standing by a window when a cuckoo suddenly appeared and stopped on the eave of the house and sang more than the length of a sentence from her. It turned slowly and round a few times, then flew for half a minute or so, and then moved about a yard away, leaving an egg clearly exposed to her view. A few moments more the cuckoo flew the egg up with its bill and flew with it still showing between the eaves. I have been in quest of unobtainable evidence on this point for over half a century, but with success more or less negligible."

Matinee Races Here Saturday

Program Delayed by Last Week's Storm Expected to Attract Big Crowd—Races Are Free to All.
The matinee race program at the Ulster County Riding and Driving Club Park on North Manor avenue which was delayed last Saturday on account of rain and wet track, will be run off this week. The races will commence promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and will be free to all. There will be at least three or four entries in all three classes which will be run and some good races can be expected. The main feature of the day will be the special match between Oliver Mainstreet, owned and driven by William D. Brinnier, Jr., and Carcita, owned and driven by Harry Walker. This race has attracted great attention and there is great rivalry between the two owners.

Last Saturday there were three races scheduled and the special match race but on account of the rain and wet track they were called off. However, there was a large crowd at the track and in order not to disappoint the people races were put on when it was seen the crowd wanted action.

Trotting seems to be an attractive sport in Kingston and the opening of the new track had attracted crowds.

QUESTION OF SITE OF HOLY SEPULCHER

Finding of Jerusalem Wall Raises Point.

Part of the wall inclosing Jerusalem built by Agrippa, one of the last Jewish kings, and destroyed by Titus, has been unearthed recently. About sixty yards of the wall, some four yards in thickness, have been uncovered by the Jewish Exploration society.

This discovery has aroused deep interest in archeological and religious circles. If this is the third of the series of walls built around Jerusalem, it is argued, it brings into question the authenticity of the site of the holy sepulcher, which is thus placed outside the city walls.

The third wall was commenced by Herod Agrippa about 40-44 A. D. and was interrupted by the Roman governor of Syria, to be completed later by the Jews before the final siege of the city.

By all accounts there were three walls which protected Jerusalem on the north, built successively both for the protection of the weakest side of the defenses and to afford room for the steady growth of the city at the beginning of the Christian era. Both the first and second walls were standing at the time of Christ and the place of crucifixion and burial must have been outside them.

Some scholars have contended the long-recognized site of the Holy sepulcher is impossible because it is shut within ancient Jerusalem, it being known that crucifixions did not take place within the city walls.

Adherents of this view, especially a large number of the English community who have always entertained doubts about the location of the Holy sepulcher, see further confirmation in the discovery of what is believed to be the third wall.

The Jewish Exploration society, which is conducting these excavations, holds with Dr. W. F. Albright, director of the American School of Oriental Research here, that the discovery of the Agrippan wall does not seriously affect "this long smoldering question." Doctor Albright admits that the situation is awkward.

"Shall we decide for the holy sepulcher and against the evidence, or against the holy sepulcher and also against other evidence of little less cogency?" Doctor Albright asks. "Neither horn of the dilemma is necessary. The present north wall of the city dates back only to Hadrian's time and represents a wholly new line of wall. We are forced to the conclusion that archeology rarely affects the question of holy sites. The location of the Holy sepulcher will remain just as certain or just as obscure as it is today."

Along with this discovery there has been unearthed a mosaic belonging to the late Byzantine period. According to the Greek inscription on the mosaic this was the tomb of a nun, near which there was also apparently a small Christian chapel.

Underworld Weapons

A London magistrate recently commented on the numerous razor assaults committed by hoodlums. He said the razor is a distinctly an-English weapon, and that it belongs really to the American negro, who specializes in throwing it.

Criminals are known by their weapons and their methods of attack. In London the metal knuckle-duster is a fairly common weapon. The Paris police use a knife, and generally carry a revolver as well.

The desperadoes of Italy and Spain favor the knife and knife respectively. The knife of the Spaniard is a deadly implement; it consists of a sharp, broad blade that folds into the handle and can be drawn and opened in one movement.

Weighted belts are sometimes used by the London "tough." A gang at Lambeth was known as the "New Girl Gang" because its members were armed with this type of weapon.—London Times.

STAMPS GIVE KNOWLEDGE OF HISTORIC OCCASIONS

An Effective Means of Stimulating Loyalty and Patriotism, Says Postmaster General.

Washington.—"Postage stamps are an effective means of stimulating loyalty and patriotism. Everybody who posts or receives a communication through the United States mail receives, no less a lesson, a transitory lesson in the history of the nation," says Harry S. New, postmaster general, in an article in School Life, a publication of the Interior department, bureau of education.

"In general the designs upon the regular issues have included the representation of the head of one of the Presidents, but in the past fifty years the custom has grown of commemorating important historical events by special issues," states the postmaster general. "The novel appearance of the new stamps immediately attracts the attention of the user, and inquiry into its meaning naturally follows. The result is a valuable lesson in history which few escape, even those of limited education."

Thirteen special series of adhesive stamps have been employed to impress historical occasions upon the popular mind. Postmaster General New continues. "They have carried to thousands their first knowledge of some of the events which were thus celebrated, and they have led millions of our people to a wider and more intelligent understanding of the circumstances that have contributed to our national existence."

Plan to Force Gypsies to Stop Wandering

Moscow.—A bill providing permanent settlement for Gypsies and forbidding them to continue their wandering customs, is now under discussion by the council of commissars.

A report by the commissariat of agriculture shows Russia had before the revolution nearly 60,000 Gypsies. The annexation of Bessarabia by Rumania, it is estimated, reduced this number to 40,000.

Before the revolution, Gypsies had no land and could not live the life of a peasant working in agriculture. Considering that according to the labor code of the Soviet republic every citizen must participate in useful productive work, the commissariat of agriculture proposes to assign a special area of land in the southwestern districts of Russia for the settlement of Gypsies.

According to the project, all Gypsies in Russia must within three years from the date of publication of the decree, take up a special place of abode, either in the towns or in the villages; failing that, all Gypsies will be deported to the far outlying districts of the federation, where free land will be assigned to them.

Should they desire to avail themselves of the government's offer, they will be afforded similar privileges to those extended to emigrating peasants. The government will bear all the cost of transportation and part initial expenses for homesteaders.

France's Unknown Hero Honored by War Foes

Paris.—Visitors to the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier under the Arc de Triomphe, always numerous on Sundays, were astonished recently to see a wreath lying on the tomb tied with a ribbon of the German colors and bearing inscriptions in German and French. Translated, the German inscription reads:

"German League for the Rights of Man." That to French said:

"To the Unknown Soldier from soldiers of peace."

The wreath was placed on the tomb without attracting attention. It is supposed to have been laid there by delegates to the peace congress.

Flatbush Social Looms Up Big

Play to be Staged, Followed by Special Refreshment Program, at Lake Katrine Grange Hall Monday Night.

That the Flatbush Farm and Home Bureau social meeting to be held in the Lake Katrine Grange Hall on Monday evening will be a rousing success is the mild promise of Community Chairman Clarence E. Davis. "Proof of the pudding is in the eating" is a proverb well known to Mr. Davis but he claims to have also learned in the course of his experiences that the "aroma" round the kitchen door is a strong indication of what is to come.

Judging by the advance information available the Flatbush actors who are to stage the play "Early Ohio and Rhode Island Reds," will be but a notch or two behind the original cast. Play Director Fred Kukuk has been driving his workers hard during the last rehearsal putting on the finishing touches. He claims to have uncovered some real stars who will shine brilliantly on Monday.

In addition to the play a varied musical program will be presented by local musical talent. A three piece orchestra will render several popular numbers. The Katrine Grange Male Quartet will have many new and catchy selections. A violin and piano solo will complete the evening's entertainment except for a tasty lunch to be served by the ladies.

In staging the first of the series of Flatbush Farm and Home Bureau social times, the Flatbush committee cordially invites the entire membership and friends to attend. The committee members who planned the affair are Clarence E. Davis, chairman; W. F. Kiefer, Fred Kukuk and Arthur Osterhoudt.

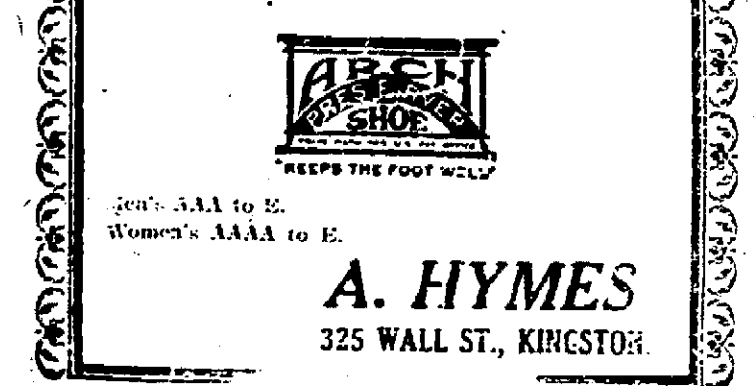

CONTRALTO SOLOIST VALUABLE ADDITION

Mrs. Charles Franklin Doty, who will be the contralto soloist at the special musical service at the First Reformed Church next Sunday evening, is going to prove a most valuable addition to the musical forces of this city.

Mrs. Doty is an experienced church singer, having for the past twelve years been the contralto soloist of the First Presbyterian Church of Syracuse. Mrs. Doty possesses that rare voice—a rich full contralto voice and lacking in sweetness and musical quality. Besides doing the solo work in the cantata, Mrs. Doty will also sing the offertory solo at this service at the First Reformed Church next Sunday evening.

Here's Unique Plan for Raising Church Funds

At least one society of women in a leading church of the city, perhaps societies in other churches, has decided to raise funds for its church in a way that is novel, if not unique, to say the least. The total amount realized would be well up in the thousands of dollars if figures tell the true story and the women carry through to the end.

The women invite seven friends to luncheon and explain the plan. Each is to pay $5.00, and the hostess may pay or not as she pleases; but it is believed if she furnishes the luncheon she would be exempt.

Each of the seven ladies will, which would make 42 guests at $5.00 each, then each of the 42 ladies will, making 294; and each of the 294 ladies will, making 852.

The number of guests diminishes until the last luncheon would have only one to entertain, but there would be more than 2000 of these parties for one—Baltimore Democrat and Chronicle.

Bud Culloton To Pitch Sunday

The Colonials will probably draw the curtain on their 1925 baseball season this Sunday afternoon when they face Chapple Johnson's All Stars at the Fair Grounds.

Bud Culloton, a member of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and former Colonial, will perform on the mound for the Colonials in this last battle.

Secretary Mullen had been making efforts to secure the D. and H. Generals for Sunday, but as this club has already ended its season these negotiations were made impossible.

Chapple's aggregation will probably prove a strong drawing card as at previous games and being the closing match will also tend to attract the fans. The entire Colonial squad will be on hand including Tex Kelly and Johnnie Peters who are attending college.

Cartel, the colored team's star pitcher, who is generally worked against the locals will probably be Bud's mound opponent. The game will start at 2:30.

WILBUR HOLY NAME BASKETBALL TEAM

Tonight at 7:30 in the Holy Name Hall, Wilbur, there will be a meeting of the young men of the parish for the purpose of organizing a basketball team for the coming season. Coach Cragin expects the following men to be at the meeting: Lynch, Fielder, Cirone, Dougherty, Morgan, Kenegon, Black, Cirone, McArdie, Butler, Conila and Hoffman.

The meeting will be called promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

Generals Issue Challenge.

The former A. and H. Generals challenge the Formist Stars for a game Sunday at two o'clock. The A. and H. Generals will then wind up the season if the challenge is accepted. Please Inform Manager Kenneth Coary. The Generals intend to use their former line-up.

Faculty Attends Hi-Y Supper

The High School faculty were the guests of the Hi-Y Club Wednesday evening at the weekly supper and program held at the local Y. M. C. A. The largest number of boys yet this term were at the supper to help entertain the faculty and to promote a greater feeling of friendliness and fellowship between the boys and their teachers which was the purpose of the meeting. The slogan of the affair was that no two teachers could sit next to each other. It was the duty of each two boys to escort one teacher to the supper and to make certain that their guests enjoyed him or herself.

After a splendid meal served by the members of the Hi-Y Auxiliary, during which the Hi-Y "Jazz" orchestra it a lively place to eat, the business meeting was conducted in charge of President Shultz. The Hi-Y six-piece orchestra was composed of the following musicians: Spiegel, Vogel, Levent, Emerson Davis, Zeffel and Bert Davis.

There was a wealth of speakers on the program, all of whom in their interesting talks helped to inspire the Hi-Y members to better carry out the purpose of the organization which is to create, maintain and extend high standards of Christian character throughout the home, school and community.

L. H. Van den Berg, principal of New Paltz Normal School was the main speaker of the evening, his topic being, "What Are You Worth?" He showed how a person's value could not be measured by his chemical makeup as from his viewpoint the average person is worth eighty-seven cents. Nor can a person's worth be measured by the number of sports he promotes or by the amount of money he can earn. A worthwhile person must have intelligence and integrity and therefore a person's value is measured on this basis. Mr. Van den Berg stated that a person's value always depends on the amount of service he may perform and what he can do for the betterment of the world. In closing the speaker showed how the Hi-Y Club had a great opportunity to be of service to the High School and its community.

J. C. Porter, the new general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., spoke briefly telling of the extent of the Y. M. C. A. throughout the world and of the good work it is doing. When Mr. Porter received the call to the Kingston "Y" he was reluctant because of severing connections with his friends, the young men and Hi-Y Club where he was then situated. But now that he is here it is certain that he will have the same cooperation here in Kingston.

Dr. M. J. Michael also spoke briefly giving an inspirational message to the organization and its guests. Mr. Michael stated that although laboring in an honorable world the world is more and more demanding the trained brains. One of the saddest pieces of work he can do among his duties is to attach his signature to a labor paper when he feels that the applicant should attend school. Mr. Michael said the boys should look on their fathers as their pals and not merely their fathers.

Mr. Van Ingen, principal of the High School, stated that the Hi-Y Club is the strongest institution for the up-building of character in the High School. Speaking in behalf of the faculty Mr. Van Ingen thanked the club for their enjoyable evening and stated that the Hi-Y had the heartiest cooperation of the faculty and its principal.

Games Saturday In DUSO League

The second week of the DUSO League playing will bring Middletown and Poughkeepsie together on the latter's soil while the K. H. S. team is scrapping at Port Jervis. Saturday's match will be the Bridge City out's first league combat and is looked forward to as a fairly even battle.

The K. H. S. Athletic Association is planning to run buses to Port Jervis in order to give the Maroon and White gladders the right back ing from the student body. The local gridiron team has emerged fairly successful with the Port team in other years and intends to give the Port fans an eyeful of scrappy eleven Saturday. The locals held the Port Jervis team last season 6-6 while this season before the Kingston High team trimmed the champs at Port Jervis, 6-0.

As Coach O'Leary has suffered a severe loss in Shultz, his leading line-man who is forced to give up football because of injuries he is trying out several new men in the line. Johnson is working favorably at center while Wonderly is being tried out at tackle to fill Shultz's berth.

Syracuse Has A Good Team

Vic Hanson, playing End Expected To Make All-American Team—Can Present Squad Survive Season Without a Defeat?

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Up on the hill, which is local idiom for Syracuse University, they haven't had a man on the All-American team since 1919. Up on the hill, they haven't finished a football season undefeated since the Mississippi river ran east and west. Up on the hill, they think that it is more than possible that both of these annual futilities may be achieved.

With Vic Hanson playing end, they think it is far from a futility that Syracuse will be represented on the All-American team of 1925. With a real offensive in operation for the first time in a generation, Syracuse thinks it may have the only football team in Orange history to survive a season without a defeat. Hanson cannot miss, according to the local diagnosticians. Weighing 170 pounds with the speed of a fawn and the instinct of a born football player, he seems to be the ideal All-American end. They called him offside out in Indiana last week because the referee couldn't conceive of a man being so far beyond the play without beating the ball.

That's the kind of an end Hanson is, said Pete Reynolds, Syracuse coach, today. "He didn't beat the ball. He merely did his stuff. It was too fast for the official who thought he saw something he didn't see."

Reynolds was an end himself back in the dark ages at Syracuse. He should know what it's all about. As for the Syracuse football team, it has fooled plenty of wise money to date. It was thought that the departure of "Chick" McEwan and the consequent arrival of Reynolds would mean what is technically known as a bad rally for Syracuse football. The contrary has been the case.

For the first time in history, Syracuse has won two games in the first five minutes of play. It having been the custom here to arrive at the given point by degrees and with great circumspection. In brief, Syracuse has an attack.

"We beat Indiana by two touchdowns. Michigan beat them some sixty points," Reynolds pointed out. "Yet you cannot compare the two results. Michigan gained only three first downs through the line. They simply forward passed the Indiana combination to death. When we met them, they had acquired an adequate defense against the pass."

"From my remarks, you may have gained the impression that I think we have a terrible football team. You are quite right. We have a good football team."

Mr. Reynolds is not so far wrong at that. In the first place he has Hanson who does everything an end should do and several things a tackle misses. He lost two fine tackles in Starobin and Waldorf, but his reply was to produce Bayley and Lee, the former something of a veteran, the latter something of a pleasant surprise. Taylor, Van Lengen, Archoska and Richtmyer have proved adequate second string material.

So have Mendell, Burke and Mooney at the wings.

Digger, 1924 letter man, is one of the guards. Levy is the other, at least he will be when he gets back into the game, which will be soon if not immediately. Levy is supposed to be the best forward in the local squad.

The centers are Friedman, regular, and Wittman, alternate, veterans both. The quarterback is Captain Foley, the best ball runner in the outfit, with Cooke in reserve, which is often, Carr, Clarke, Hanson, Melser, Flanagan and Mason are the half backs with Barbuti at fullback.

That is the personnel of the team that has won all of its games to date. It still has to take on Penna State, Columbia and Colgate. Can it go on and do what no other Syracuse team has been able to accomplish?

A Card Party.

The Degree team of Colonial Heights Lodge will hold a card party on Tuesday afternoon, October 27, at Odd Fellows Hall, Broadway and Brewster street. Everybody welcome to attend.
